I OBJECT to the proposed development of yet more houses at Brooklands Farm on several grounds namely:

The flooding danger in the area seems to be increasing as more and more houses are being built. I live in a bungalow [REDACTED] Chestfield and twice have not been able to get home because of flooding around the Swalecliffe railway bridge at the start of Chestfield Road.

It seems our local sewage infrastructure is under pressure as the recent dumping of sewage in the sea reveals. Until we have investment for this problem increasing the number of houses is only serving to exacerbate this problem.

The Chestfield Road although a 30 mile an hour area is still very difficult for pedestrians with only one pedestrian refuge island near the children's playing field despite the road serving a residential area. The increase in traffic is only going to make things more difficult apart from the extra noise and pollution.

We all know how difficult it is to get a doctor's appointment these days. Increased population is only going to make matters worse.
