I moved to Rough Common Road [REDACTED] years ago because of the village life and feel of a community. This proposal would mean widening Rough Common Road, removing the grass-verges and taking away the look and feel of the village. Trying to cross Rough common road during school hours 8-9am and 4-6pm is virtually impossible due to the amount of cars going to the University or Kent College, and others using at a short cut. There was a recently proposal for Canterbury to have 4 zones, because it could not cope with the amount of traffic using the city and surrounding area. This will only make congestion around the city so much worse than it already is. It barely copes now.
