To whom it may concern,

I OBJECT to the housing development on Brooklands Farmland due to the following reasons:

1. The sewage plant is already overloaded and cannot cope with more sewage which will ultimately end up in the sea making the coast less safe for locals, visitors and wildlife.
2. The traffic is already too congested at peak times.
3. There have been no NHS dentists available for new Whitstable residents for the last 5 years. The current infrastructure barely supports the current population.
4. Whitstable is losing its local countryside which will cause more flooding and is bad for wildlife and ultimately the environment.
5. Hosepipe bans due to lack of enough water will increase – how can Kent continue to be ‘ the garden of England’ if we cannot sustain the natural environment around us?
