My name is Richard Williams my address is [REDACTED] I am writing to object to the proposed development of 2000 houses at the countryside between Blean, Tyler Hill and Roygh Common. I feel that the development is far too big and is in totally the wrong place. I feel the impact on the surrounding areas is too much. The increase in traffic in Rough Common and surrounding areas and the associated extra pollution. The impact on the infrastructure drainage pollution would be horrendous. The increase of population and associated increased air and light pollution the loss of rare wildlife including skylarks yellowhammers nightingales, bats butterflies, foxes badgers, stoats, the loss of farmland and green open spaces and ancient woodland. Destroying the character of St Cosmus and St Damian Church and other historical monuments and would turn the Crab and Winkle into not much more than an urban street. Although I accept that there is currently a housing crisis but I feel that this development is far too big and in totally the wrong place
