To Whom it may concern,

I am writing to object to the proposed development planned at Brooklands Farm and along those along the Thaney Way in Whitstable.

I am in my twenties and have lived in Whitstable all my life. I can already see the impact the current developments are having in my home town, from traffic queues to hosepipe bans and sewage being pumped into the sea. Working in London, I value the green space we have and do not want to live in a town that builds on all natural resources.

I feel as part of the younger generation we are always being targeted regarding the environment yet you are making our roles harder to put the damage right by agreeing to increased house builds on areas used to graze animals and grow crops.

Please consider the future of the younger generations when making your decisions.

Kind regards

Joseph Mitchell
