Please can you confirm that the problem of not having sufficient water for the current residents of our district has been dealt with? How will there be enough water for all these extra homes?

I read that 2 sewage treatment plants are on the plan, but is this enough?

Sewage was being dumped in the sea last year so how will all the waste from all these new homes and businesses be dealt with?

I have communicated with Andrew Cook who has outlined the plans for desalination plants and that Southern Water will sort the sewage system by 2030 but neither of these projected plans will deal with the problem we have NOW which will get worse as each new house is built.
