Do you have any comments on the proposed deletion of land north of the University of Kent?

We would like to make the following comments on the above question:-

We, as a family, are so pleased that the 2000 houses that were proposed for land north of the university are being deleted.

The impact on Tyler Hill Road would have been enormous with so much extra traffic trying to get along such a narrow road.

If the houses had been built, there would no longer be the villages of Blean, Rough Common and Tyler Hill standing seperately as it would have joined these villages together.

The wildlife would have been dramatically effected with the loss of the woodland.

The water and sewage supply would be greatly effected, the water pressure is not good at the moment, it would be even worse with another 2000 houses.

Please take note of the above comments.

Thank you.
