Dear Sir/Madam

With reference to the above consultation I write with specific reference to the possible development for housing at the site of Chartham Mill.

I am sure you are aware of ecological gem that is the Stour chalk stream. It is suffering from a host of environmental threats including pollution and abstraction. There are however opportunities to improve it's condition for the fish ecosystem if capital was available for specific projects.

Could I please urge you to consult with the Stour Fishery Association about this matter as they have deep knowledge over many years of the issues and challenges facing the river. More importantly they could advise you projects that will help preserve this very special natural asset.

Yours

David Hurst-Brown
