These are my comments on the proposed deletion of the item "Land North of the University of Kent".

I am in agreement with the deletion and the reasons influencing such a decision and would like to add that my earlier comments would also be relevant to any future development proposals for this area.

If the University is stepping away from land speculation, the land should be returned to agriculture, or, as I see that it has been listed as Grade III land, and as the Government is falling woefully short of its target to create more woodlands, it should be planted up as such.
