Thank you for keeping C12 out of the local plan.

I live in [REDACTED] and really appreciate the woodland and wildlife in the area. There are so many birds to be heard in the area and invertebrates! A huge toad made me jump as he leapt across the bottom of my garden!

Demolishing Blean school a thriving primary school would deny children an education in a lovely area. University of Kent is cash strapped but I am sure that it was sold the land with the belief that it would be used for research and discovery.

The Blean is an internationally recognised area of importance. There is diverse woodland and the area is well used for leisure and awe!

The Crab a Winkle way is of historical importance and Blean church also Roman remains.

The traffic through the village has already increased hugely due to the developments at Herne Bay. There is often a mile or more of near stationary traffic through Tyler Hill. Rough Common and Blean often have stationary or very slow moving traffic. There is not a viable traffic management scheme for the development.

Children have artificially created forest school as part of their education. It would be so sad if that was their only access to real woodland. A child's face when it hears the cuckoo or an owl at twilight is incredible even in the IT age.

Please keep C12 safe.
